Step 3: Medical Clearance

The physical demands of a firefighter are characterized by strength, endurance, coordination, agility and dexterity. Participants of the firefighter for a day program will experience the physical stresses of firefighting, although to a lesser degree. All activities take place in a supervised and controlled environment. Tasks are broken down into manageable segments. All scenarios are done in a controlled training atmosphere. A participant may stop, if at any time they do not feel comfortable, and instructors will give additional direction and support. Instructors will stop activities if at any time there appears to be any risk of injury or danger.

The following is a list of factors that will increase the difficulty of the physical demands that are required during tasks:

- Turn out gear and SCBA (Self Contained Breathing Apparatus) equipment restricts movement, adds weight to the individual and requires an increased physical effort while wearing the SCBA.
- Equipment used is often heavy and is frequently used in awkward positions.
- Environmental conditions, such as sun, humidity, or rain can add difficulty to tasks, which can cause fluctuations in body temperature.
- Darkness and/or smoke in a fire scenario decrease visibility, increasing the difficulty of the task.

Activities participants will take part in include, but not limited to:

- Full use of turnout gear and SCBA
- Search and Rescue techniques
- Operating and controlling a hand line
- Ground ladder set up and climb
- Auto extrication

Equipment used includes, but is not limited to:

- Variety of sizes and lengths of hose (charged and uncharged)
- Power and hand tools including: cutters, spreaders, rams, axes, pike poles, halligans, and sledge hammers,
- SCBA (weighing approximately 30 lbs)
- Personal Protective Equipment (weighing approximately 20 lbs)
- Ground and roof ladders
